PRODUCTION

who we are

English Communications is a Swiss-based communication agency with a difference.

Our expertise in English-language communications and training is based on over 25 years' international, multi-sectoral experience.

We provide specialist communication services developed specifically to help organizations and individuals get their message across in the most effective way. We stand ready to respond to all your production and communication training needs.

So, look no further for the highest calibre of communication support and advice.

Whether you're planning to create a logo, produce a publication, translate or edit a document, make a corporate film or even develop an entire marketing and communication strategy, we have the expertise.

We want to help you be seen and we want to help you be heard.

our production services

Our production service is dedicated to planning, creating and delivering effective marketing tools for your business, product or event.

Whatever the challenge, we pride ourselves on our ability to develop unique and intelligent marketing solutions.

With our network of excellent production specialists and communication professionals, we will always be able to develop the right approach and the right product for you.

Whatever the medium, we have every stage of the production process covered:

- concept and strategy
- copywriting
- translation
- text editing
- corporate, promotional and training films
- graphic and print design
- website design and e-marketing tools
- voice-overs
- event and master of ceremony service

our clients

At English Communications, we've enjoyed working with some of the best companies in both the private and public sectors. As you can see from some of our clients represented here, we do very different things for very different clients.

From the world of the non-profit organization right through to that of luxury goods and banks, English Communications guarantees that all its clients receive fully personalized services especially adapted to their particular needs.

We use a select group of international and local suppliers for graphic and film productions, and have qualified, professional editors and translators.

Our offices can be found in The Lumen Center in Crissier, just outside Lausanne, and only 30 minutes from Geneva. Well-known in the local region since 1947 as a cinema (Cinema Lumen), the building has been renovated inside and now houses our superb professional training and production facilities. You'll be amazed when you step inside.

Call or e-mail us – we're sure that we'll be able to help.
